The queen bee

On Monday, Jeff the postman came to our house with the mail. He rang the doorbell and gave the mail to Mum. Then he said he had just been stung on the hand by a bee. “Oh dear,” said Mum. “Would you like to wash your hand under the tap?” “Yes,” said Jeff. “That would be good.”

He washed his hand under the garden tap and said it felt much better. But then Mum looked at Jeff’s hand. It was very red and we could see where the bee had stung him. “That looks bad. It could have been the queen bee,” said Mum. “Was it a very big bee?” “Yes,” said Jeff. “It was very big.”

Then Mum explained to us what a queen bee is. She told us that there is only one queen bee in a hive with lots of other bees. She lays the eggs and the other bees do all the other work in the hive. It is very bad to get a sting from a queen bee. Poor Jeff!

True or false?
